PULSAR SX

PC Gaming Headphones

If you've been shopping for a top of the line gaming headphone – Stop Looking! The Pulsar SX has been in development for over 2 years and includes all the features a gamer could ever want. Our core passion is PC gaming, so when we designed the Pulsar SX we left nothing out – except for an over hyped price!

“The Most Versatile Gaming Headphones Ever Made for PC!”, is a claim proudly supported by our specs. To start, the Pulsar SX sports both Virtual 7.1 Surround Sound and Stereo audio output which you can change with a flick of a switch! The list of useful features is robust all the way down to an elegantly simple detachable microphone.

With the Pulsar SX, your game audio not only sounds great, it feels great too due to “Sonic Force Feedback” vibration effects. This gives the gamer a realistic and uncompromised audio experience. In addition you get an awesome pulsating light show on each ear cup based on the intensity of your game action. The dynamic variety of lights not only look cool they let your friends know you are in the middle of an intense firefight!

As versatile and feature packed as the Pulsar SX is, you can also listen to your iPod or other MP3 audio device in beautiful stereophonic sound. As you would expect, Pulsar SX is both Windows XP and Vista compatible.
